Arturo Conversion (Internal version)

SOW Version (Julianna)

We are asking Arturo for several deliverables towards Instagram Well-being's mission to create safe, supportive, and equitable experiences that foster trust in Instagram. In no particular order:

A summary of insights from Arturo's experience as to what data we need to collect, from whom, in what formats, in order to understand what makes Instagram users have bad experiences on the platform, whether they violate our Community Guidelines / Standards, or not. This is a quarterly deliverable for ongoing insights.

Survey designs (likely 5 or so needed for different flows within the app), produced together with Instagram user research, product design, and content design teammates, to collect the aforementioned data.

Provide consulting to IG Well-being, Central Integrity and other internal XFN partners regarding the collection of data. We need to vet and socialize of these methods with IG Well-being and our partners, e.g. Central Integrity and Central Social Impact, to get their buy-in to collecting this data, as well as their feedback on insights, on an ongoing basis.

Consult and advise Engineering leadership teams within Instagram regarding data collection and analytics in support of data pipeline and dashboard design for ongoing monitoring, alerting, and roadmap changes.

Provide three monthly summaries of insights and recommendations for product roadmap prioritization across Instagram (including outside of Well-being) to improve bad experiences as seen by our users.

Improve, iterate or create career growth plans for FB leadership (senior eng, product, data science, design, user research) working on these projects, to identified FB managers.

Draft and socialize a vision for Instagram to move away from policy-violating focus towards bad experience measurement and improvement, updated every six month based on new data and insights from the teams involved.

Every six months, draft a set of headline metrics for Instagram to use in defining, measuring, and improving bad experiences. Final draft each half to be consulted, reviewed and approved by FB data scientists.

Payment Structure

How do we envision paying for Arturo's services?

- We are flexible, with monthly being ideal.
- We can put dollar values on deliverables, yes. But I am going on parental leave, so maybe Samir can take a swag at these?

*We will not be able to pay hourly moving forward*

Job Description (Prior to chatting with Julianna)

The Instagram Well-being organization is looking for a world-class leader with both breadth and depth in a number of areas, all aimed towards our collective vision of making Instagram a force for good in this world.

The pillar's mission is to make Instagram the safest and most supportive community. This person would ideally cover the entire funnel, starting with understanding (What are people experiencing on Instagram? How are they feeling about it?), to product planning (What should we prioritize improving? How?), to engineering advice (system architecture, design, working with shared infrastructure across the company), to rollout communications (working with PMM, Comms, and business functions as needed).

This leader should have in-depth experience in understanding user bad experiences (qualitatively and quantitatively), translating it to product ideas with the relevant XFN experts, and designing long-term, cross-Instagram (and cross-family of apps, potentially cross-industry) technical architectures to support users as they experience these bad moments. We would expect this person to be a thought-leader in the space, with considerable (10+ years) experience with online harm understanding, measurement, and remediation.

The role including undertaking short- and long-term (multi-year) projects within Instagram, across the family of apps (e.g. messaging bad experiences with Messenger / IG Direct / WhatsApp), and ideally across the industry in time, where we want to collaborate with other leading social platforms such as YouTube, Twitter, and TikTok.

This person should represent Instagram in these forums, requiring a high degree of clear communication (verbal and written) on nuanced topics (such as understanding teenage bullying on the platform).

Finally, we would hope this leader helps coach and grow our personnel, again across functions (especially engineering, product, research, and data science), so they have the skills to help with all of the above topics over time.

Responsibilities

- Work with the Well-being research team to lead Instagram's efforts to understand bad experiences on our platform; what are users experiencing, how do they perceive it? Help design user surveys, interviews, and other research methods, participating directly as needed.
- Work with the Well-being data science team to translate those understand efforts into concrete metrics, both goaling and operational, we can use to guide our strategy. Conduct qualitative and quantitative analysis of the data involved.
- Influence resource allocation across functions, across the company, so we focus on the most impactful ways to be a force for good in the world. Drive analysis and decisions on (eg) reducing prevalence of policy-violating issues vs subjective, non-violating bad experiences.
- Work with the Well-being product teams to translate the above into roadmaps, at each half planning cycle, emphasizing a long (multi-year) view.
- Work with the Well-being engineering teams to devise scalable, well-understood, reliable technical foundations for all this work. Create technical documents (notes, architecture diagrams, etc) as needed to communicate the plans.
- Be a bridge to other teams in the family of apps, e.g. Facebook App Integrity or the central Responsible Innovation group. Represent Instagram in meetings with those teams, seek alignment on common goals and metrics.
- Represent Instagram's work in this area to our management chains, e.g. IG Leads, Central Integrity, Central Customer Support, and related groups, up to and including Facebook executive team members.

Requirements

- Proven experience in the field
- Experience in management
- Analytical and creative
- A great listener with ability to communicate with people of diverse disciplines
- 20+ years of industry experience

Business Justification

The combination of responsibilities describes above is quite rare: it's world-class expertise in user understanding (research), the ability to translate it into a product roadmap, as well as an engineering plan, all in a highly-specialized space (Well-being). There are fewer than 10 people in the world meeting these qualifications, we estimate, most of whom are retired or employed at our competitors.

Arturo would bring industry-leading expertise to bear on a high-priority space, with positive impact on the daily lives of 1B+ users on Instagram, leading to improved brand sentiment and regulatory adherence. If he joins, he can work for us exclusively, bringing a significant competitive advantage. He is regularly courted by Twitter, Google, TikTok, and similar competitors.

As soon as Chris Cox came back to Facebook, he and Arturo got back in touch. That's the level of expertise Arturo brings, and we hope to retain him as a Facebook asset for the years to come, in the maximum capacity he can.

Please note we will continue efforts to get him to full-time as much as possible. The current blocker is not interest, but his ongoing partnership writing and composing an opera with [REDACTED]. That will likely be done in 1-2 years, and then Arturo will have a significantly more time for us.

Arutro Conversation

P1389.3

- How many hours a week do you think you'd be available?
  - Right now I'm thinking 12, around a day and a half. Considering remote work which helps so much for use of time. My thinking is that it would be on average, some weeks more, some weeks less, depending on demand. This would allow me to work hands on a few projects projects, provide mentoring/support to 3-4 people, as well as advocate/liaise with different parts of the organization (having the bandwidth/perspective to work with the FB App team, or RI has been great).
  - Another way to think about it is my upper bound over time is 2 days a week, but I hesitate to commit to that many hours on average. On special weeks I would of course do more, though there are weeks where less might be needed. The one thing I would like to up front about with you/Yoav is that the art work with [REDACTED] takes priority (he's 84), but usually scheduled well in advance, so there will be times where I travel a couple of weeks to film/do that work. This is the way I've been working for a while and it has not been disruptive.
- What would the duration be? Should we make it open-ended for part-time?
  - I think open ended would be best, my goal in joining is to see through the bad experiences work to a set of metrics that help drive work and resourcing, and to help develop a model for possible solutions to address bad experiences that are not covered by policy violating content. My guess at the rate things are going is that will take at least one or two years. The goal is to make a difference on bad experiences that people have in product, and to help drive solutions that make the community better/safer.
- We need to put together a JD, with roles/responsibilities. Is that something you can start, and we can iterate on in quip/Google docs?
  - Added a section below for that, made it HR friendly, feel free to annotate or feedback.
- What type of pay rate are you thinking of?
  - Great question, we might need to do a quick video chat on this one at my corporate consulting rate 500, 12 hours week/4 weeks month/12 months it adds up to $312k.
  - I think 200k + benefits would work. Maybe I'm thinking low? I think FB gets a lot of bang for the buck in terms of the things I bring.
- In terms of reporting structure, are you ok with reporting to Yoav?
  - Yep, I think he's great.

If we want to keep it at monthly payment this is fine & can work. If possible, we may want to figure out how to align the outlined deliverables to a monthly/quarterly calendar to show a "roadmap" of why we are paying a standard fee and how the work progress at each stage of the year/quarter etc

The Instagram Well-being organization is looking for a world-class leader with both breadth and depth in a number of areas, all aimed towards our collective vision of making Instagram a force for good in this world.

The pillar's mission is to make Instagram the safest and most supportive community. This person would ideally cover the entire funnel, starting with understanding (What are people experiencing on Instagram? How are they feeling about it?), to product planning (What should we prioritize improving? How?), to engineering advice (system architecture, design, working with shared infrastructure across the company), to rollout communications (working with PMM, Comms, and business functions as needed). This leader should have in-depth experience in understanding user bad experiences (qualitatively and quantitatively), translating it to product ideas with the relevant XFN experts, and designing long-term, cross-Instagram (and cross-family of apps, potentially cross-industry) technical architectures to support users as they experience these bad moments. We would expect this person to be a thought-leader in the space, with considerable (10+ years) experience with online harm understanding, measurement, and remediation.

The role including undertaking short- and long-term (multi-year) projects within Instagram, across the family of apps (e.g. messaging bad experiences with Messenger / IG Direct / WhatsApp), and ideally across the industry in time, where we want to collaborate with other leading social platforms such as YouTube, Twitter, and TikTok.
